COMMENT OF THE DAY

Commonwealth Conference

THE Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference being held in London occurs at a crucial time. Much hangs upon its conduct, not merely upon the decisions it may or may not make, but also upon its ability and courage in tackling the problems which undoubtedly face it. It is a conference that will be watched with more than usually critical eyes by those who believe the British Commonwealth to be the most effective of international partnerships.

Much of the prestige enjoyed by the Commonwealth rested on the fact that, at the outbreak of World War II, this unit was banded tightly and immediately into a united force (the first and at one time the only such force, and certainly the centre of the democratic hopes of the world) while the League of Nations was destroyed, sinking without effect and without trace. The events of the Suez crisis have thrown some doubt upon this conception of the family bond.

THERE are many substantial, and it may be hoped, effective bonds which bind the freely associated nations of this community. But the final reason for the Commonwealth, without which the community is bound to become sterile and ineffective, must be the ability to join hands, and to do this instinctively, when the need arises.

So the quarterly review of British Commonwealth Affairs asks "When one or two members drift into an attitude of continuous disapproval of the conduct of the rest, and the habit of scoring debating points or playing to the world gallery against them, the question is bound to be asked whether a body maintaining so little mutual confidence can long survive."

The soothing tone of the usual manifesto—"a valuable exchange of views on a wide variety of subjects"—would be a disappointment after this meeting. It might mean that the truth was being concealed. It might mean that controversial issues had been dodged. It would certainly mean that we had not yet reached any decision on a matter of the first importance—"the rules of the club."

STILL ACCEPTING CARGO FOR S'PORE

Two of Hongkong's leading shipping lines on the coastal trade, the Indo-China Steam Navigation Co., Ltd., and the China Navigation Co., Ltd., are still accepting cargo for Singapore in spite of the continued crippling go-slow strike in that port.

The manager of the Indo-China S.N. Co. Ltd., said this morning that "they were presently not restricting the acceptance of cargo for Singapore as no request had been received from Singapore to do so."

Ships of the China Navigation Co. Ltd., whose ships, the Hupah, Chengtu and Hanyang, are leaving for Singapore in the next few days are all accepting cargo for Straits ports.

NOT MUCH

A canvass this morning showed that the Singapore strike does not affect ocean carriers much. Most of them do not normally carry much cargo from Hongkong.

Some of the carriers on the European run, for example, would take only seasonal vegetables from Hongkong to Singapore. The vegetables would be stacked on deck which could be quickly discharged on arrival.

The Kuei-shan Line, now based here, due to leave here for Singapore tomorrow, is not accepting cargo for Singapore pending instructions from her principals.

The P. & O. liner Corfu sailing from here on Friday, is not

SUSPENSION OF NUCLEAR TESTS

Russians Welcome New Western Proposal

London, July 2.

THE West proposed today that the atomic powers agree to a 10-month suspension of nuclear tests. The proposal was conditional but was immediately described by Russia as "gratifying."

Shah's Daughter To Marry General's Son

Montreux, July 2.

General Fazollah Zahedi, former Persian Prime Minister, announced here tonight that his son Aredchir would marry the 17-year-old daughter of the Shah of Persia, Princess Chahnaz, in about three months.

The Shah and Queen Soraya visited General Zahedi at his villa here today. He has lived in Montreux for the past two years.

Princess Chahnaz, whose name means "pet of the Shah," is his daughter by his first marriage to Princess Fawzia, sister of ex-King Farouk of Egypt. She is his only child.

Queen Fawzia returned to Egypt in 1948 and the marriage was dissolved in 1949. In 1951 the Shah married Soraya, beautiful daughter of a Persian nobleman and a German mother.

The Shah's suite has repeatedly denied persistent rumours that during their current visit the Royal couple would consult Swiss specialists about their childlessness—China Mail Special.

SACKED MEN VISIT LABOUR OFFICE

Twenty-nine men representing 340 dismissed workers of the Pacific Worsted Mills Ltd, Tsun Wan, visited the Commissioner for Labour this morning to place their problem before him.

The workers were dismissed because the factory owner said they had run into certain difficulties but said the workers would be re-employed when they had overcome these difficulties.

The Commissioner for Labour said he had heard the workers' side of the story, but it would not be proper to say anything until we have heard the employers' side of the story too.

The Western proposal was presented to the five-power disarmament conference here by British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. He said there should be prior international agreement to cut conventional arms and to halt all manufacture of fissionable material for warfare.

US delegate Harold E. Stassen said the 10-month suspension of tests could begin on the first day after a first-step disarmament treaty is ratified—which would have to include favourable action by the US Senate.

Stassen said the cut-off on production of nuclear weapons could come as late as 1959, but it could come earlier if agreement can be reached on details of inspection and control.

CONDITIONS

Western sources said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin "welcomed" the US, British, French and Canadian proposal with "gratification." But he could not reply at once because of the seriousness of the matter.

Lloyd imposed these conditions upon suspension of the tests:

★ Russian agreement to halt all production of fissionable materials for use in weapons, including missile warheads.

★ Acceptance of cutbacks in non-nuclear armaments and military manpower, as already proposed here.

It was the West's biggest concession in 11 years of stalemate arms-cutting negotiations.

In reply to Zorin's request for more details, Stassen said they would be presented in three or four more meetings.

Present weapons stockpiles would not be affected.

SAME RIGHT

However, Stassen said the Western proposal did not mean accurate inspection.

In effect, Stassen was offering to admit Soviet disarmament inspectors to Oak Ridge and Hanford and the other top-secret atomic plants in return for the same right in Russia. He said inspection could be worked out quickly—United Press.

OVER 200 KILLED IN IRAN QUAKE

Disaster Of Century

Teheran, July 2.

At least 260 persons were reported today to have been killed in Iran's biggest earthquake disaster of the century, which occurred on the Caspian Sea coast last night.

Reports reaching here indicate the quake's epicentre was at the foot of the 18,000-foot Mount Damavand, an extinct volcano which is the highest peak in the Alborz chain.

The quake did heavy damage to hamlets in nearby valleys and completely levelled the village of Lavijan, where 200 persons were killed by landslides.

Fled In Terror

Panic still reigned in the Bilbol area, where the quake caused 60 deaths. The inhabitants, most of whom were sleeping on roofs because of the intense heat, were thrown to the ground by the quake.

They fled in terror to the countryside and refused to return to their homes.

Landslides cut most roads across the Alborz chain, including the Firouzshah highway, one of two main routes to the Caspian.

Premier Manucher Eghbal declared the earthquake a "national disaster" and asked the Iranian Red Cross to dispatch all its available first aid and health equipment to the Caspian coast.

The quake also hit Teheran and other Iran cities but no damage was reported here.

Reports for the earthquake victims were said in all the big mosques today—France Press.

Missing Red Ships Sighted

Copenhagen, July 2.

The Soviet cruiser Mikhail Kutuzov and three escorting vessels, which disappeared in the Atlantic on their way to Gibraltar, yesterday were observed in the "great belt," official sources said here today.

The Soviet warships recently entered the Mediterranean through the Dardanelles. They left through the Gibraltar Strait.

They were observed on a southbound course in the great belt yesterday and were believed heading for a Baltic harbor—United Press.

HK Political Societies Due For Shakeup

By A CHINA MAIL REPORTER

GOVERNMENT will introduce a bill in the Legislative Council this afternoon to give it new powers to control the activities of political societies operating in the Colony under the guise of harmless titles.

One of the main aims of the provision is to strengthen its hand against societies exercising or attempting to exercise political or "undesirable" influence over schools.

Under the provisions of the bill, which will amend sections of the Societies Ordinance, Government will submit all societies to a searching investigation before they are registered.

"Rural committees" will have to be recognised by the District Commissioner. New territories before they are registered.

Other loopholes which Government is seeking to close under the new bill include the possibility that companies or trade unions are registering as "societies."

NEW CLAUSE

Another new clause in the proposed bill will empower the Registrar of Societies to "rescind the exemption granted by him in respect of any society" or cancel registration if it is known that:

★ A society has any connections with political groups outside Hongkong;

★ A society is likely to be used for unlawful purposes or purposes prejudicial to the peace, welfare or good order in the Colony;

★ Any illegal act has been performed in a room or building used or controlled by a society or by an office-bearer acting in his capacity;

★ A society has exercised or intends to exercise political or prejudicial influence over the conduct or management of any school or over teachers or pupils.

Another new and important power proposed by Government seeks to curb "the growing tendency of certain local societies to participate in the commission of illegal acts in the name of the society."

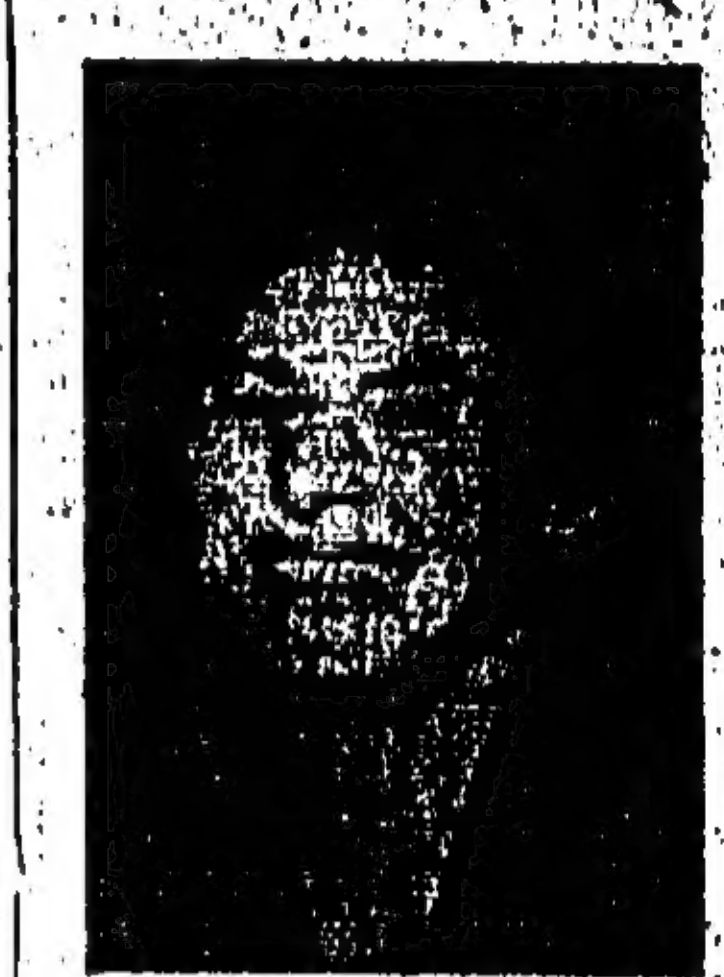

So Government now aims to attach liability to officials and people assisting in the management of a society on behalf of which a criminal offence is committed.

The onus will then be on officials to prove they were not involved.

They Make It Up

Rome, July 2.

Roberto Rossellini and Ingrid Bergman have healed over many differences between them and will meet for a "second honeymoon" in August at the Italian resort of Santa Marinella, the Rome daily Momento Sera reported today.

INGRID BERGMAN

The couple have a villa they have used for brief vacations between films at the resort, some 80 miles north of Rome. According to Momento Sera, Rossellini plans to return to Rome as soon as he has finished working on his current film in India.

His wife, the paper said, will join him here after winding up her run in the Paris version of Robert Anderson's "TVA and Sympathy" and spending a few days visiting in Copenhagen—United Press.

Churches Appeal For Colony Refugees

ROMAN Catholic and Protestant churches have now launched appeals for international action to help Chinese refugees in Hongkong.

Like a week, it was revealed in the China Mail that Protestant Churches here had requested the World Council of Churches last month to seek world-wide assistance.

And today, a Register report from Geneva said the International Catholic Migration Commission urged the United Nations Economic and Social Council to take action on behalf of Chinese refugees in Hongkong.

In a letter to the council, meeting in Geneva, the American President of the Commission, Mr. James J. Norcia, said "these refugees have been estimated to number over half a million—more than one-quarter of the population of Hongkong."

Heavy Expenditures

"They are sleeping in attics, cellars, stairways, garages, in caves in the hills surrounding Hongkong and in the streets, with only makeshift hovels or shacks for shelter. Some $50,000 have on rooftops according to a count made recently by a helicopter survey."

"We feel that if these people could benefit from the assistance programme of the High Commissioner for Refugees, the work of the voluntary organisations would be made more effective, as would that of the government of Hongkong, which has undertaken heavy expenditures for relief work."

The British view was that this link, which would enable TWA to take passengers between London, European cities and the Far East, would be a serious threat to British Overseas Airways already serving those routes.

Air experts said that if North West were granted rights to Hongkong, this would mean that TWA and North West Airline would be able to operate and each have a route to the Far East.

Aviation experts in London think negotiations might be reopened when the D.C. 3 and Boeing 707 are introduced for airlines and the competition in a new plane line.

MENZIES DOMINATES CONFERENCE

STABILITY OF FAR EAST PARTLY DUE TO SEATO

Says Pote Sarasin

Washington, July 2. The Thai Ambassador, Mr. Pote Sarasin, newly-appointed Secretary-General of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organisation (Seato), today credited the eight-nation pact with having done much to foster stability in the Far East.

Mr. Sarasin spoke at a ceremony at the Thai Embassy at which he was formally notified of his selection as first Secretary-General of Seato, created three years ago to help stem Communist expansion in that part of the world.

NOTIFICATION

The notification was made by the Pakistani Ambassador, Mr. Mohamed Ali, who is the top-ranking representative here of the Seato powers in the absence of the Australian and New Zealand Ambassadors.

Mr. Sarasin will leave soon for Bangkok, headquarters of Seato, to take up his new duties.

Mr. Ali, in his speech of notification, said he was happy to be able to convey formal news of the appointment and considered the organisation fortunate in its choice.

The selection was made yesterday in Bangkok by representatives of the Seato Council.

ACCEPTANCE

The eight nations which are members of Seato are: the Philippines, Pakistan, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, France, Britain and the United States.

Mr. Sarasin, in his acceptance speech, said it was a "great honour and great responsibility" to assume the post of Secretary-General. He recalled that at the time Seato was formed it was still uncertain whether there would be peace in Vietnam and Korea.

"Many useful steps have been taken in the past two years and I believe the stability of the Asian situation today is partly due to Seato," said Mr. Sarasin. —United Press.

USAF SNARK GOING INTO PRODUCTION

Washington, July 2. The United States Air Force has ordered quantity production of its Snark intercontinental guided missile — a jet-powered pilotless bomber.

The Air Force announced the award of a $28-million dollar ($28,000,000) contract to Northrop Aircraft, Incorporated, and said that operational units of the strategic air command will receive the missiles as they come off the production line at Hawthorne, California.

Intercontinental

An Air Force spokesman said the eight-ton missile, powered by a J-57 turbo jet engine, was "designed to carry a nuclear warhead at high speeds and at high altitudes" about 5,000 miles over intercontinental ranges.

The Snark uses an "air breathing" engine which means it must travel within the earth's atmosphere.

This is in contrast to the proposed ballistic missile, which will travel on the edge of space at many thousands of miles an hour.

Today's announcement said the Snark was "equipped with a guidance system capable of directing it to its target through all weather conditions."

Sea Test Lanes

The spokesman said also that the Snark had "demonstrated its long-range accuracy in numerous successful flights over sea test lanes reaching southward into the Atlantic from the missile test centre at Cape Canaveral, Florida.

No details of these test flights have been made public but one is known to have travelled at least 3,000 miles.

Last December a Snark fired from the Cape Canaveral refused to heed the radio signals intended to steer it back home. It disappeared in flight. The Air Force said it presumably crashed in the jungles of Brazil, about 3,000 miles away.

The sharply swept-back wings of the Snark have a spread of 42 feet. Its length is 74 feet. —China Mail Special.

TICKER TAPE PARADE FOR 'PILGRIMS'

New York, July 2. Some 50,000 New Yorkers cheered Capt. Alan Villiers of the Mayflower II and his crew today as they paraded from the battery to City Hall in a shower of ticker tape to be greeted by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Wagner presented the Australian-born Villiers and each of the 21 crewmen with the city's citation of distinguished service scrolls. The mayor praised the mariners for their feat in crossing the Atlantic in the 65-foot barque.

The Mayflower's 27-year-old cabin boy, Joseph M. Meany of Waltham, Massachusetts, presented the mayor with a rare 17th century Mass of Leyden, the Netherlands, where the pilgrims lived in exile for several years. Meany is the only American crew-member.

Following the welcoming ceremony, the crew was entertained at lunch at historic Franciscan Tavern. The reception was a part of "Mayflower Day" festivities organized by the city to honour the Mayflower's arrival here for a four-month stay. —United Press.

Defence Of Cape Route Discussed

By HAROLD GUARD

London, July 2.

The future of the United Nations and defence tactics since the loss of Suez were the main topics discussed by the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference here today.

Conference sources said this morning's seventh plenary session was "dominated" by Australian Premier Robert G. Menzies who called for a joint Commonwealth policy in the United Nations.

The sources said each representative of the 10 Commonwealth countries spoke at the session which stressed the need for action in the United Nations if it is to be effective as referee in world affairs.

Nothing Concrete

Menzies set the discussion in motion with a review of the United Nations' actions since the Anglo-French adventure in Suez, charging that although it had exercised "a degree of influence" nothing concrete in the interests of the free world had been achieved.

"Menzies dominated the conference this morning," conference sources said.

The conference agreed, the sources said, that Menzies should draft the memorandum on today's debate on the which would be included in the conference's final communiqué when the Commonwealth Ministers conclude their meeting next Friday.

"From what was said today it seems safe to say that the memorandum will be a pretty strong one," conference sources said.

Restricted Session

After this morning's session Menzies went to lunch with British Defence Minister Duncan Sandys who was attending this afternoon's restricted session on defence.

India's Premier Jawaharlal Nehru followed his usual practice of avoiding the defence conference.

Ceylon's Law Minister M.W.H. de Silva was also an absentee but Kwame Nkrumah, Prime Minister of Ghana, sidestepped the "India line" and attended the defence session.

Defence quarters said there were two kinds of "defence context" discussed by the Commonwealth Ministers.

First was major war which meant hostilities either with one of the Communist powers or with the whole Communist bloc. From this aspect the regional alliances with the United States such as Nato, Seato and the Baghdad Pact.

Second was Commonwealth action in times of war for protection of strictly Commonwealth interests not involving American interests. Defence quarters said the conference would take into account that since Suez the Middle East would have been opened to hostile Soviet infiltration but for United States intervention.

This development has had the effect of bringing the two great world powers face to face on the African-European landscape which could increase the likelihood of global war.

Strengthening

With the loss of command in the Suez area, defence quarters said, the Commonwealth Ministers would have to take into account these dangers in the approach which had been reduced to a single line of communication around South Africa.

The need for strengthening Commonwealth defence of their vital approaches has been stressed by South Africa whose Minister for External Affairs, Eric Louw, attended today's session.

Sources said the conference would continue the defence of the Cape route as defence of the African continent south of the Sahara which comprises the backyard of nuclear age action.

MALAYA HAS NO ANTHEM

Kuala Lumpur, July 2.

The Federation of Malaya may not have a National Anthem ready by Independence Day on August 31, Malayan Director of Information, Inche Jacob Bin Laili, said here today.

Laili said that an international competition held earlier in the year had failed to produce an anthem which the Federal Government considered suitable.

The Director of Information said the Duke of Gloucester, representing Britain's Queen Elizabeth, would arrive for the independence celebrations on August 29.

He will bring the constitutional instrument renouncing the British protectorate over the Malay states and British sovereignty over the settlements of Penang and Malacca.

Laili said the new independent state of the Federation of Malaya would be born at midnight on August 30 and that independence would be proclaimed on the morning of August 31 in a ceremony watched by 20,000 people. —France Press.

UN SECURITY COUNCIL SEAT

US And Britain Decide To Back Japan

WELL, WELL, WHAT A SIGHT!

New York, July 2. Britain and the United States both have decided to back Japan for membership of the United Nations Security Council, thus virtually assuring her of election, informed sources said today.

The question will come up at the next General Assembly, opening on September 17.

It elected Japan would take office on January 1, 1958, when Cuba, the Philippines and Australia will have completed their two-year term.

There is a tacit understanding that Council seats are distributed on a geographical basis, and that the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom are understood to be fairly certain of succeeding Cuba, a Latin American representative, and Australia, the Commonwealth one.

Colombia, the other Latin American member of the 11-nation Council, completes her term next year.

The Philippines occupies the seat assigned to Eastern Europe. But this is because she decided to back Japan in the balloting at the 1955 Assembly and a deal was worked out by the then President, Senator Jose Maza of Chile, to divide the two-year term between Yugoslavia and the Philippines.

In the draw, Yugoslavia won the first year, 1956.

Denounced

The Soviet Union bitterly denounced the arrangement and is expected to back an eastern European state for membership when the elections are held this year.

Britain supported the Soviet position at the 1955 assembly, principally, it was understood, because of her interest in preserving the Commonwealth right to a seat, now occupied by Australia.

Thus, diplomats said, British support for Japan meant a shift of position. Feeling behind it was said to be that the Commonwealth claim to representation could stand on its merits, particularly since four members of the powerful Afro-Asian group—Ceylon, Ghana, India and Pakistan—are also Commonwealth countries.

East European

The Soviet Union is expected to sponsor an eastern European candidate for the seat sought by Japan, but informed sources said today that most of the Afro-Asian group were sure to support the Far Eastern power, particularly since the group is known to be anxious to consolidate its representation in the Council.

Japan was admitted to the United Nations membership only last December.

Ever since, she has played an increasingly constructive role in the World Organisation, diplomats said.

Mr. Nobusuke Kishi, the Prime Minister, is understood to have discussed Japan's bid for Security Council membership with President Eisenhower and other administration officials during his recent visit to the United States.

Word of Britain's support was disclosed only today. France and China, the other permanent members of the Security Council, were expected to "go along" with the Anglo-American delegations.—Reuter.

RED CHINA EXPELS 6,000

Taipei, July 2. Father Aidan McGath of the St. Columban's Missionary Society, who spent two and a half years in Communist China, said today the Peking regime has expelled some 6,000 foreign Roman Catholic missionaries from China mainland.

In addition, Father McGath said, the Chinese Reds have executed at least 600 Chinese priests and imprisoned countless others.

In an interview with a local newspaper, he said the Reds have also confiscated 3,000 Roman Catholic primary schools, 200 high schools, 200 hospitals and three universities.

Father McGath was expelled from Red China in 1954. He is presently on a private visit here.—United Press.

DRAFTING OF NEW KASHMIR RESOLUTION?

London, July 2. Indian sources said tonight that the Prime Minister and Foreign Minister of Pakistan are drafting a new Kashmir resolution to be put before the United Nations Security Council.

They said British officials were assisting with the draft of a resolution calling for a UN-supervised plebiscite in which the people of Kashmir would decide whether to join India or Pakistan.

NOT AWARE

Pakistan sources said they were not aware that a new resolution was being prepared. They emphasised, however, that Pakistan had been demanding such a plebiscite.

The Indian informant said that Pakistan Prime Minister, H. S. Suhrawardy, and his Foreign Minister, Malik Feroz Khan Noon, were working on the draft. They are attending the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' meeting here.

NO COMMENT

A Pakistan official declined to comment on reports from the UN that his government is urging a July meeting of the Security Council on Kashmir.

Suhrawardy was believed to be making "diplomatic inquiries" here to determine whether Council members favour a July session.

Pakistan will most certainly raise the Kashmir issue in the Security Council in September, one source said.—United Press.

ISRAEL WANTS PEACE IN MIDDLE EAST

Says Elath

London, July 2.

The Israeli ambassador to Britain called today for an "international understanding" to solve the problems of the Middle East.

Mr. Elath, Elath, in a speech to the Anglo-Jewish Association, said Israel sought peace in the Middle East with "no intention of aggression or conquest."

"Israel welcomes, for her own sake as well as her neighbour's, any progress in the area to raise standards of living," he asserted, adding, "There are far more necessary to the welfare of the Middle East than nationalistic slogans, which can only foster fanaticism and xenophobia."

The major need, he said, was for an "international understanding" which would be important to Israel and the Arab states and would contribute to the peace and stability of the area.—United Press.

UK Interested In Nasser's Call

London, July 2. A Foreign Office spokesman said today that Britain had noted "with interest" President Gamal Abdel Nasser's call for a return to normal relations between Britain and Egypt.

A-Energy Plans Suffer Set-Back

Bonn, July 2.

West Germany's atomic energy plans suffered a major set-back today when the government suddenly abandoned attempts to push a nuclear energy bill through Parliament before the September elections.

The decision to do so was announced after a group of some 50 deputies of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats (CDU) expressed their opposition to the bill.

The bill laid down the legal conditions for operation of atomic reactors for industrial and other purposes. West German plans to buy or construct at least a half-dozen such reactors.

The bill already had passed its first reading and committee stages in the Bonn Parliament.

It was due to receive its second and third readings in the Bundestag (Lower House) after passage of a constitutional amendment giving the Federal Government control of all peaceful atomic energy questions.

But for the second time in five days the constitutional amendment failed to pass because it was two votes short of the Lower House. More than 90 deputies failed to put in an appearance for the vote.—United Press.

QUAKE ROCKS ASSAM

Calcutta, July 2.

Millions of people rushed for safety into streets and fields in the early hours of today as a one-minute earth tremor rocked the entire state of Assam on India's border with China.

A second, more violent shock occurred 30 seconds afterwards and it lasted a little longer. Some buildings were damaged in the Indian town of Jorhat, nearest to the quake's epicentre, said the district's deputy commissioner. "The shock was very strong," he said, "and it was very sudden."

KISHI DENIES FORCED INTO SECRET AGREEMENTS

Tokyo, July 2.

The Japanese Prime Minister, Mr. Nobusuke Kishi, tonight denied he had been forced into reaching a number of secret agreements with the United States administration during his recent visit to Washington.

A usually reliable government source said Mr. Kishi's denial was made at a meeting of Liberal-Democratic (Conservative) members of both houses of the Diet (parliament) earlier today.

Mr. Kishi said among the issues were release of United States convicted war criminals, the defreezing of Japanese assets in the United States, the return of Okinawa Islands to their homeland, immigration and issues relating to Japanese-South Korean negotiations for the normalisation of relations between the two countries.—Reuter.

NOT INCLUDED

The Chief Cabinet Secretary, Mr. Kishida Ichida, yesterday told correspondents there were "several important issues discussed but not included" in the joint United States-Japanese communiqué announced in Washington last week.

Mr. Kishi said among the issues were release of United States convicted war criminals, the defreezing of Japanese assets in the United States, the return of Okinawa Islands to their homeland, immigration and issues relating to Japanese-South Korean negotiations for the normalisation of relations between the two countries.—Reuter.

The British spokesman emphasised that written acceptance of the ruling of the International Court was prescribed by the statutes. A mere verbal declaration was not held binding, he said.—United Press.

US FATHER PROTESTS SON'S ARREST

New York, July 2.

Les McKeer, the father of 22-year-old American soldier, Dewayne McKeer, accused of murdering a man named Abdel Ahmed Lianini in Paris, today protested because his son had been arrested by the French authorities.

McKeer said he did not want his son tried in a French court and was prepared to bring the matter before the United States Supreme Court if necessary.

McKeer said he had been assured by the United States State Department that his son would be given a fair trial in the United States. He said he was now waiting for the State Department to give him more information about the case.

NEW PURGE EXPECTED IN RED CHINA

By JACQUES LOCQUIN

Peking, July 2.

The Communist Chinese campaign against "rightist deviationists" has entered a new phase, expected to be marked by a purge of "counter-revolutionaries".

The new phase was clearly indicated in an editorial by the Communist Party paper "People's Daily" which said that "bourgeois" and "reactionary" forces had been deliberately left unchecked "in order to let the masses understand how dangerous they are and participate in their total elimination."

A TRAP

The paper said: "We organised a trap to catch all those who were planning to usurp power."

A check of the national and provincial press showed that somewhat less than 200 persons have been accused of "rightist deviation."

Among them are prominent figures, including Cabinet ministers, Lo Lung Chi, Chuan Po Chun and Chang Nai Hsi, and prominent journalists such as Chuan Ping, who was recently fired from the editorship of the "Kwang Ming Daily."

The anti-deviationist campaign for the time being remains centred on the "rectification" movement organised by the Party, in which Party members, which exist in China along with the Communist Party.

SELF-CRITICISM

These parties have called a succession of "accusation meetings" in which critics of the Communist Party are asked to make detailed "self-criticisms."

At one such meeting, Lo Lung Chi, head of the Democratic League, had to explain why he attended a dinner party in

PAT SMYTHE

The world's leading women show-jumper

SHOW-JUMPING is not so effortless as the experts make it look, so a watch has to be pretty tough to take it in its stride. That's why Pat Smythe is so pleased with her lovely Rolex Oyster Perpetual.

"I wear it all the time, and as for worrying about it when I jump, I never give it a thought. I wonder at first whether it could stand up to the jarring and the fall, but they don't harm it at all."

"I've worn it sailing, where it often gets wet. I've worn it riding, where it gets covered in sweat, and I've worn it in 30° of frost, as well as in the heat and dust of the Sahara desert. Nothing seems to affect it: it just goes on keeping perfect time—and winding itself, which means there's one thing less to remember."

"I'm delighted with my beautiful Oyster Perpetual and my constant companion. The Ladies' Rolex Oyster Perpetual is ideal for women who lead busy and active lives. It is so perfectly lovely to look at, and whatever you do—ride, sail, swim—it keeps perfect time. The precision of Rolex in all the spheres of modern watchmaking assure that."

Sure, they are building dreams... but are they GOOD dreams?

AN intriguing picture of wide and powerful influence falls suddenly into place with this, the final report on Prince Charles's future training and a factor the public knows little about. That factor is the Salem Set—an incredibly fast-rising educational movement that has sown its roots deeply.

I STARTED to find out what sort of a school Gordonstoun is because I know the influence it has had on Prince Philip, and because I think he will want his son, Prince Charles, to have the same education.

But now that I have studied Gordonstoun and Salem, the mother school in Germany. Now that I have found out about the branch school in Greece... Now that I know something of the Outward Bound Schools—which give short courses in the Salem tradition... Now that I have heard about the projected Nato schools planned to carry out the same system...

I think I have come across something even more important than the sort of education our future King might have.

The Salem system—founded by Kurt Hahn and his patron, Prince Max von Baden—is like an onion. You peel off skin after skin... you are never quite sure you have reached the centre.

Take the information about the Greek school, Anavryta. The chairman is the King of Greece. His wife is Queen Frederika.

She is the sister of Prince Georg Wilhelm of Hanover, the head master of the mother school at Salem, who is married to a sister of Prince Philip.

Another brother is Prince Ernst August, who is now claiming the Dukedom of Cumberland.

by DONALD EDGAR

The school in Greece was founded in 1949. In 1950 Prince Philip and the Queen—then Princess Elizabeth—both visited the school.

The next day Prince Philip went back to see the head master. He is Jocelyn G. Winthrop Young, who has a reputation as a mountaineer, and was also a classmate of the Prince at Gordonstoun.

PATTERN

THE Crown Prince of Greece is being educated at Anavryta.

The pattern at Anavryta is the familiar Salem one—athletics on the Greek model, hockey, initiative tests, an austere life.

It is all the familiar pattern of the schools which Plato dreamed about for his ideal Republic—schools to produce a "Guardian" class of elite who would direct society.

And Kurt Hahn, as a young German, studied Plato and admired the philosophy.

When the German Empire was overwhelmed by the Allies and a republic was set up it was a time of the greatest humiliation for the princely houses of Germany.

It is a little difficult for us in 1957 to realise that in 1918 Europe was still the centre of the world.

And that through the monarchies, many of them still nearly absolute, the German nobles had every reason to believe that it was their destiny to control the world.

Prince Max von Baden, one of the great German aristocrats and the last Chancellor to the Kaiser, surveyed the scene.

Where had they gone wrong? It was then that Hahn made his voice heard.

The secret, he said, was in education. He pointed to England. There a monarchy, German by origin, was firmly on the throne. There was a victorious country whose ruling class was still respected.

Deeply imbued with Plato, who had also constructed his ideal system of educating an elite when Athens had been defeated, he argued that a mixture of Plato and the system of Salem would produce an efficient elite.

SPARTAN

PRINCE MAX was won over. The new Spartan race would be created—not in his generation, then in the next.

He made available a large part of his great castle at Salem. The Salem system was born.

And when one considers its influence after only 40 years—the future for it looks most promising.

I said the Salem system was like an onion.

Strip off one skin and you find what seems just a variation of the original theme of the British public school with added emphasis on character-building, initiative, and self-reliance. All praiseworthy virtues.

Strip off another and you find that something has gone wrong with that wholesome vegetable, the British public-school system. That this is the public-school system seen through its darkest, scummiest eyes that expect nothing but the focus all wrong. This is just an organic English growth, not a conscious attempt to produce leaders who are of a philosophic disposition, high spirits, speed, and strength—to quote Plato.

KURT HAHN... from Plato to Power

And Plato, with his beautiful dream—for he was more poet than philosopher—dreamed an ideal republic of estates that most people agree today is more Fascist and totalitarian than anything else.

But strip off skin after skin—and always there is the influence of the German noble families. With an admixture of the big industrialists whom they admit into partnership.

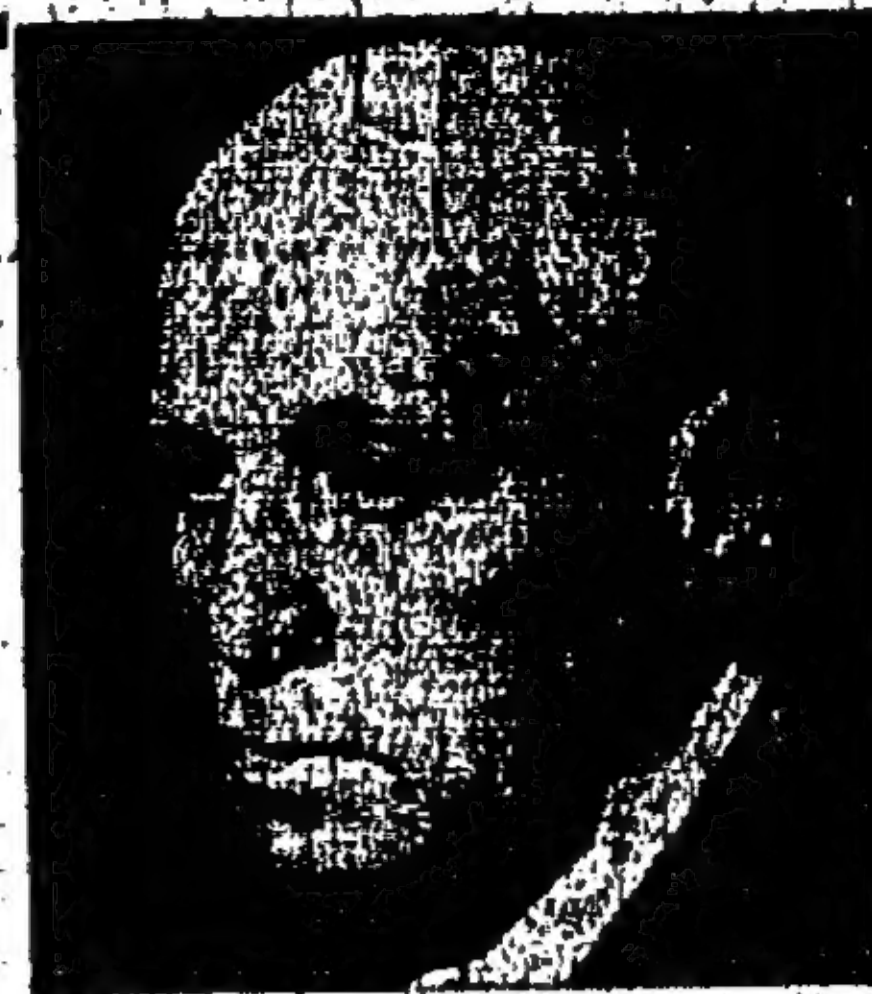

They are all related, these princes, margraves, counts—related to each other related to such kings and queens as exist. Is there a plan behind it all? Is there a kernel of embryonic power?

Are the international links part of some purpose?

Are people still dreaming dreams?

Are they good dreams?

My Wimbledon row with Teach Tennant

CONNOLLY: Teach supplanted my mother in my life.

TENNANT: She was always dominant, and outspoken.

MAUREEN CONNOLLY—CONTINUES HER OWN STORY. "THE MASK OF LITTLE MO"

ELEANOR TENNANT is the greatest tennis teacher in the world. The fact that we quarrelled often, finally split, and no longer are friends does not diminish in the least my respect for her genius or lessen the gratitude I feel.

People like Miss Tennant and me with only one driving obsession—to win—are not entirely normal in the accepted meaning of the word.

History's painters, pianists, poets, and generals all lived with a burning fixity of purpose. So it was with Teach, and so it was with me.

Quarrel

OUR quarrel on the eve of my first Wimbledon left me emotionally torn. It was difficult for a young girl to draw charity's veil over bitterness, to rationalise, compensate and reconcile.

The newspaper stories saying she was washing her hands of me, that I was headstrong, wouldn't listen to her, and how had no chance of winning hurt deeply.

Then fury took over. I had wanted to break with her before, but Mom had always held us together. Now I was through.

I am sorry the whole thing had to happen, but I no longer feel bitterness or anger. I am sorry for Teach, for what she did to herself. I think the greater share of blame lay with her but certainly I was not blameless.

I, on this tennis court, was what she had made me, and when we parted and I succeeded without her it was a heavy blow.

In the mind of a young girl right and wrong are like black and white. There are no shades. Now, of course, I realise if Miss Tennant had not possessed her own special and unique set of qualities she wouldn't have been the great coach she was.

My meeting with Teach was part of the pattern of my life, part of a curious destiny. If you will, I was 12½ years old and on the trail of bigger tennis game.

Direct

WE met at the Beverly Hills Tennis Club, where she was the professional. I was surprised and awed. I had expected someone younger. She was then in her late 40's, a slender, graceful woman with a smooth face tanned like old leather and topped by striking silver-grey hair.

"You must be Maureen?" "Yes, Miss Tennant."

"Let's hit a few. I want to see what you can do."

Direct. No preliminaries. Fixity of purpose. That was Teach. Unless I had promise I was wasting her time, and that was worth $25 an hour.

At that moment I wanted Teach for a coach more than I wanted anything else in the world.

Teach changed my game completely. I developed sound strokes, a power game, and later during my career, if a shot missed, Teach would bring me back to basic practice and straighten out the shot.

Dominant

TEACH is a world in herself, and like in any other specialised field there are personal qualities. For Teach they were inevitable.

She was always dominant, outspoken, a positive thinker at all times; she abhorred stupidity, and her like, children and opinions were considerably less than State secrets.

Later Teach chose my clothes, on and off the court. Her taste was, severe, but impeccable. Here I must add she was a very generous woman.

There was a broad background for my break with Teach, and although I have never studied either psychology or psychiatry, I believe, to some extent it was a curious case of my becoming Teach's alter ego.

I worshipped her at first. She could do no wrong. Her opinions became fact for me. Her likes and dislikes became mine. I am ashamed to say there was a period when Teach supplanted my mother in my life.

However, as time went on my submissive, Trilby-like attitude changed. I became more dominant and headstrong, and in this task force of two there was room for only one field-marshal.

Doubted

TEACH believed everything in any life should be sublimated to tennis. However, I liked to forget tennis occasionally, have dates and a good time.

One incident, seemingly trivial to me, resulted in a stormy quarrel. I had gone out on a double date, the car broke down, and we didn't get home until dawn.

Mom accepted my story as truth.

Teach didn't.

She not only doubted my word, but she was furious because I failed to keep a tennis date with her the next day. My young temper melted hers.

There are two versions of my break with Teach, mine and hers. This is my story, and I shall tell it now for the first time as I remember it.

Although I was now going after the greatest title of all, this was far from a happy time in my career. Teach, though I was still, then I developed a sore shoulder.

Teach sent me first to a soccer trainer who diagnosed the shoulder as fibrositis and suggested liniment. Then she took me to a chiropractor who diagnosed my trouble as a torn muscle.

Refused

THIS touched off another row between Teach and me. She thought my whole future would be in jeopardy but I could not agree. My shoulder did not hurt when I hit a forehand drive or backhand but only an overhead shot.

I was certain it couldn't be a torn muscle.

We were having tea in the players' tea-room over the No. 1 court at Wimbledon and the current argument was about mixed doubles. I was scheduled to play and Teach wanted me to withdraw. I refused.

The big blow fell immediately afterwards, when Teach was quoted as having said she was washing her hands of me. I was headstrong, wouldn't listen to her advice, and was putting my career in jeopardy.

Now I had no chance at Wimbledon, the story went. Teach was quoted as advocating my withdrawal from the singles, while, as a matter of fact, only mixed doubles had been under discussion.

Stunned

I WAS stunned, bewildered, confused, and almost on the verge of a nervous breakdown. Even during our quarrels the thought of going into battle at Wimbledon without Teach had never occurred to me. My final emotion, however, was anger.

Mom had borne the telephonic bludge of the Press' storm and the phone never stopped ringing. My mother was distraught. She knew what Wimbledon meant to me, but she wasn't sure whether or not I should play.

Finally she called Perry T. Jones for help. (Jones, now president of the Southern California Tennis Association, was a long-standing friend of both Little Mo, and Eleanor Tennant.)

(He arranged for Little Mo to be seen by an orthopaedic surgeon on the understanding that she would withdraw from Wimbledon if the doctor advised it.)

No girl saw a doctor with more fear or misgivings than I. I felt as though my very life hung in the balance as the doctor, a distinguished-looking man, examined my shoulder. He was thorough, painstaking, and after an eternity he finished.

"My dear," he began softly, "you haven't a torn muscle...."

A sham

I HAD my arms around him, kissing him with wild joy before he completed the sentence. I was certain he never encountered a more excited patient or made a diagnosis which was received with such hysterical enthusiasm.

I was staying at the White House Apartments in London, and Teach was living there too, in order to avoid any further Press flare-up we maintained a sham truce.

I'm sure by then everyone was fed up with my trouble and I confided my "reading" to the dinner menu. I do recall that the players were a bit cool to me, and certainly the gallery was against me.

THE BOYS' & GIRLS' CLUBS ASSOCIATION

The Hongkong Chinese Training Unit, commanded by Major R. R. Grenves, Northamptonshire Regiment, takes a very deserved spotlight this week if only for the distinction of being the only Hongkong unit this season to win a FARELF team title.

The total strength of staff and recruits seldom exceeds 120 and while from a sports viewpoint the authorities regard them as a minor unit, the HKCTU have other ideas, and, entering the major units section of most sports, they "have a go" at practically everything.

They stand supreme in the basketball world and, apart from a defeat by their closest rivals, 66 Coy. IASG, by the first game of the season, and that by only five points, they have remained "cock-of-the-walk" since. They won the Major Units League, and finally the FARELF Championship, the latter by taking on, and defeating, the other two finalists, the Singapore Gladiators Rgt. and 2/10 Gurkha Rifles from Malaya, in one morning.

ENTHUSIASM

A lot was owed to SSI Paddy Croft, APC, for his enthusiasm and guidance, and it was a pleasure to see him playing with the team. He was undoubtedly the "star" of the team, and his performance was a real credit to the unit. He was a very good player, and his leadership was much appreciated. The team was very well trained, well coached, and very fit and keen.

They are at present preparing for the Summer season, and several have been selected for training with an Army team scheduled to meet the American "Adventure for Victory" team who are due in the Colony in the near future. Shining at athletics, they won the Hongkong Other Ranks Championship for the seventh successive year, and, prompted by this success, had a go in the Garrison and Land Force Team Championships.

In the former they gained a merited fourth position below such athletically minded units as 178 Landing Battery, RA, and 4 COD, and in the latter they were in fact only 14 points behind the third team. A very creditable performance which I hope to see bettered next season.

Defeating the holders, 82 Independent (HK) Sqn. RE, by two straight pulls, they rounded off the athletic season by annexing the Top-of-the-War Championship.

IN THEIR ELEMENT

Naturally, at swimming and water polo they were in their element, and after winning the Hongkong Other Ranks Individual and team swimming titles, they took a deserved third position in the Land Forces team event, and, but for the fact that the Army claimed their star diver, may well have more closely challenged the winners, the Hongkong Signal Regiment.

At soccer the larger and stronger British opposition proved too much for the team, and they spent the season supporting the other teams in the Hongkong zone of the Minor Units League, finishing with a played 12, won 1, and lost 1, but earned a lot of praise for good sportsmanship.

The unit have yet to be bitten by the hockey bug, and after their successes in other branches of sport, it cannot be long before we see them "having a go".

On completing this review of the year I would assure the HKCTU that we have enjoyed meeting you on the sports field and at least in one sport we have learnt a lot from you, and I for one look forward to seeing you in action again when the main sporting season re-opens. Good luck to all.

SEVEN DEPART

Soccer fans will be disappointed to hear of the departure from the Colony of a host of Army "stars", among whom are Sgt. Bert Allen, RASC, from 15 Field Rgt., RA, a player who turned in some very good games last season, and that sparkling winger, Sgt. Eric Griffiths from 15 Medium Rgt., whom I considered rose from an "average" grading at the start of the season to one of brilliance towards its end, certainly he was the most feared winger from the Chinese players' viewpoint.

Gnr. Perry Hogan of 27 HAA Rgt. will no longer contribute to our enjoyment of the game and he will be sorely missed both as a player and as captain of the team.

Sgt. Chas. Christman, RASC, from 15 Field Rgt., Rgt. RE, who did some good work from his wing position, Cpl. Harry Davies of Command Workshops, REME, a player I felt was overshadowed by two slightly better centre-halves but who would have done well had opportunity presented itself. Tpr. J. Burgess, 7 Hussars, a very sound back, and last but not least Cpl. Grimshaw, REME, are other departures.

These seven departures must be causing the Army team manager many headaches, and it can only be hoped that the new recruits will produce a new batch of stars to maintain the high standard of Army soccer in the Colony.

HEARTY WELCOME

A very hearty welcome is offered to the 1 Royal Tank Regiment by all local sportsmen, and we sincerely hope that they will carry on the good work of the 7 Hussars.

The regiment have been severely handicapped during the past year by being split up into small detachments and spread out over the length and breadth of England. Looking at their past glories, however, it seems that their chief love has been athletics for four years in the BAOR Championships.

They also won the BAOR water polo title in 1955 and the Canal Zone honours in 1955. At athletics they were in the runners-up position for two successive years in the Canal Zone Pentathlon competitions.

A tour in Korea during 1955 saw them trying conclusions with our American friends at baseball, where no specific honours are claimed.

I have it on good authority that after nearly five years of restricted sporting activity the Regiment are going out for honours in every branch of sport, hoping to build up really good teams, and team spirit.

We on our part look forward with pleasure to seeing the Regiment's colours on the local sports fields.

SURREY STRETCH THEIR LEAD TO 44 POINTS

Beat Yorkshire By An Innings

London, July 2.

Surrey, the County Cricket Champions and leaders, increased their lead in the table to 44 points when they beat Yorkshire by an innings and 19 runs today.

They now have 146 points from 12 matches and lead from Derbyshire, 102 points from 12 games, who were playing the West Indies in the series which ended today.

Lancashire, who beat Middlesex by 12 runs, and Warwickshire, who drew with Kent, are next with 100 points each from 13 matches.

Fifth in the table are Northamptonshire, whose victory over Nottinghamshire takes their total to 88 points from 12 matches.

Remarkable bowling by Eric Bedser (five for 27) and Tony Lock (three for 64) carried Surrey to their runaway victory over Yorkshire.

They were responsible for a Yorkshire collapse in which the last eight wickets crashed for 29 runs in 53 minutes.

Earlier Yorkshire had seemed likely to put up a good fight when Willie Watson (72) and Vic Wilson (69) took their over, but the second wicket stand to 123 in two and a half hours.

Eric Bedser broke the stand by getting Wilson caught behind the stumps, and in less than an hour the score dropped from 140 for one to 174 all out.

Middlesex collapsed. Middlesex, set to get 230 in three hours forty minutes to beat Lancashire, collapsed before the offspin of Roy Tattersall, who took seven for 39, his best figures of the season.

On a pitch showing signs of wear, Tattersall dismissed Middlesex's decline by dismissing Bob Gale and Bill Edrich in the same over, and with Brian Statham dismissing Denis Compton for a duck, three wickets went down for 35 runs.

Middlesex were all out for 163 and Lancashire won with 20 minutes of extra time to spare.

Northamptonshire, needing only 80 runs at the start of the day to defeat Nottinghamshire, ran in an anxious time getting them.

None of their early batsmen were happy against the pace of Arthur Jessop. Later Bruce Dooland caused concern with his spin, and five wickets went down before the run was made.

Honourable Draw. Kent, battling all day against Warwickshire, forced an honourable draw. They wiped out arrears of 155 and eventually finished 83 in front, scoring 109 in four hours 55 minutes today.

Alan Dixon played one of his best innings for Kent, never failing to punish loose deliveries, in scoring 61 in 101 minutes, with ten fours.

There was a dramatic finish in the match between Sussex and Worcestershire. With the total scores level, Bob Broadbent of Worcestershire was run out off the last ball of extra time when racing to get the one run necessary for victory, and the match ended in a draw.

Worcestershire, who finished with five wickets in hand, were happy against the pace of Arthur Jessop. Later Bruce Dooland caused concern with his spin, and five wickets went down before the run was made.

Two Important Fights For Dommy Ursua. Philippines' Dommy Ursua, third ranking world flyweight challenger, disclosed upon his return to Manila this morning that he will meet Argentina's Pascual Perez in a world title bout in September and Mexico's Raoul Macias in a return match in November.

The tiny Filipino fighter, technically knocked out by World Bantamweight (NBA) Champion Mincas on June 15 last at San Francisco, said he was "very eager" to meet Perez, who holds the World Flyweight Championship. —France-Press.

League positions as at the end of play on Monday were:

Yankees Stay Two Games Ahead In American League

New York, July 2. Gil McDougald's two-run double with two out in the 11th inning gave the Yankees a 6-4 victory over the Orioles today and earned southpaw Whitey Ford his second triumph in relief in as many days.

Baltimore reliever Ken Lehman struck out Enos Slaughter and Mickey Mantle to open the 11th, but Yogi Berra singled and Joe Collins walked. When the count reached two balls and no strikes on McDougald, George Zuverink replaced Lehman and was tagged for McDougald's double.

Ford, the Yankee's fourth pitcher, gave up three hits and struck out three over the last four innings to gain his fourth victory.

The Yankees remained two games ahead of the second-place White Sox, who defeated Detroit, 4-2.

Larry Doby hit his eighth homer off Frank Lary in a three-run inning to help southpaw Billy Pierce to his 11th triumph. Pierce gave up five hits but got into trouble because of three Chicago errors.

Sammy White drove in both over Washington. The Red Sox collected only three hits off Camilo Pascual and Russ Kemmerer while Frank Sullivan, the winner, gave up six hits.

The Cincinnati Reds scored twice in the 10th inning on doubles by George Crowe and Don Hoak and three walks to beat the Chicago Cubs 8-6.

Cincinnati, aided by Wally Post's grand-slam homer, scored five runs in the second inning, but the Cubs battled back to tie the score and rout Don Gross. Ernie Banks hit homers for Redlegs while Lee Walls and Ernie Banks hit homers for Chicago. Raul Sanchez was the winner and Jim Brosnan the loser.

"Toucher" On Yesterday's Open Pairs Games

Although no upsets were registered in the opening matches of the second round of the Colony Open Pairs Lawn Bowls Championship yesterday when 14 pairs entered the third round, thrilling last head finishes were seen in no fewer than four games.

In the feature match of the afternoon, John Tang and Joe Landolt of Kowloon Cricket Club just managed to scrape through with a 23-22 win over M. B. Hassan and O. R. Sadick of Indian Recreation Club with a "Huke" shot from the last wood of the game.

Hassan and Sadick enjoyed an early lead of 10-3 after the fifth head, but dropped off after that to allow Tang and Landolt to draw up to 12-12 by the end of the 12th head.

The Indian pair went ahead with a four to 16-12 only to see Tang and Landolt retaliate with a two and two threes to lead by 20-16. Effective heavy shots by Sadick in the next few heads brought him to 22-21 on the last head.

Hassan and Sadick were lying three shots on the deciding head when Landolt, in a desperate drive to take the jack into the ditch for a single, was narrow with his last wood, but hit a front wood, which in turn sliced the jack to one side to give him a count of two.

MOST UNLUCKY

Most unlucky pair in yesterday's games were perhaps C. E. M. Terry and A. Harvey of Kowloon Bowling Green Club. Both played some brilliant bowls against their more favoured opponents, S. Bucks and U. A. Rumjahn of Indian Recreation Club.

In a game that produced the highest standard of bowls in yesterday's games they actually had the better of their opposite numbers on the whole match, but lost the game on an erratic wood by Harvey in the third last head of the match.

The score was then 17-15 in favour of Terry and Harvey. With Harvey to bowl the last wood of the head, he was lying three on the jack, and when any other bowler would have just "talked" his last wood, Harvey tried to draw in a fourth shot. He was a shade heavy, tapped his first shot, which was touching the jack, and sprang the jack a few inches back to give his opponent a lie of two.

Although the next head was burnt, Ducks and Rumjahn managed to score a three on the 20th head and kept their opponents to a single on the last head to win by 20-18.

Two other matches which were won on the last head were those between A. K. Ismail and M. Q. Wong of Craighower and the two youthful brothers, L. A. and A. M. Marques, and between P. Manson and P. W. Hollands of Craighower and C. H. Gough and R. O. Hughes of Police Recreation Club.

In a very close match all the way, Ismail and Wong were trailing 18-16 on the last head, but chalked up a three on the last head—two drawn shots by Ismail and one lucky one by Wong when he was a little bit narrow but tapped up his own front wood.

Manson and Hollands were 17-10 up at the end of the 16th head, but conceded a single, a five, a two and another single on the next four heads to trail behind by 17-19 on the last head. A three on this head pulled them through to the next round.

George Formby Is Quite Content To Take Life Easily Nowadays

By RALPH COOPER

George Formby—still a name to conjure with. One of the last of the great music hall artistes; the man years ago made a rip-tickling racing film called "No Limit"; but who, at the age of 53 and five years after a heart attack that looked like finishing his career, finds that title no longer applies.

Not to him at any rate. George has not retired—and probably never will. But he's quite content to take life easily and ration the work. Two big TV shows a year and a play or a pantomime.

I found him at and sun-tanned on his luxury motor cruiser in Norfolk and he announced himself as "champion".

"But it's not worth earning more than £7,000 or £8,000 a year today," he said frankly. "Anything over that and you're working for nothing. I was doing well in the days when you were allowed to keep some of the money you earned."

And George and his wife Beryl have always lived simply and put their brass away for a rainy day.

"I've never wanted anything else," George told me, as we sat on the deck of his cruiser.

MAD SCRAMBLE

The sun was beating down, the water lapping idly against the side of the boat and the sails of a nearby yacht flapped gently in the breeze. We might have been a million miles away from the mad scramble that is show business.

"I've never liked the gay life, the night clubs and the parties," he went on George.

"We've got our house at St. Anne's and we've got this boat. It's a pretty good life."

The Formbys split their time between the two—with most of the summer on the boat.

"You wouldn't want to go back to it all?" I asked Beryl, after soaking up some of their peace and quiet. Her answer surprised me.

There was a certain wistful regret in the way she said: "Oh, I don't know. It was fun, wonderful fun when you're young and battling to get somewhere."

George looked thoughtful. "I'd hate to have to start all over again, though, as we did at twenty, with no money and only two weeks' work on the books. I'd be afraid to—today."

Beryl corrected him on the matter of detail. "When we started George had £70 worth of debts and I had £75 in myings. So after we paid off the debts we had £5—and two weeks' work on the books."

Then George saw a car he wanted—for £80. I told him we hadn't the cash and he suggested getting it on the never-never.

"I'd been brought up strictly and I was horrified, but he talked me into it."

"Never again!" That's the only mistake we've ever had hanging round our necks. And we've had about 190 cars since then.

"George is mad about them. He's always changing them."

George normally runs a Rolls and a big Jaguar, but when petrol rationing came in he thought he'd better get something smaller.

"I bought a little ten-horse job," he said, "but after years of driving big fast ones it was terrible. I thought I was standing still."

"That car lasted two days," said Beryl, "and then he got a bigger one."

Went on George: "I kept that one till the end of the week, didn't I?" And the twinkle came back in his eye as he added, a trifle apologetically: "I got myself a little Jag."

I recalled that George has always been interested in speed.

Way back in 1935 that racing film of his, "No Limit," was one of the funniest he ever made.

I remembered he rode an old AJS motor bike in that picture. "I had one of those, too," he said. "Did all me courting on it."

"That's something of a record, too. We're coming up to our thirty-third year of married life... and that's pretty unusual in this business."

"And we've never spent a day apart," declared Beryl, "except when he was in hospitals. Then I went up to see him three times a day."

George thought back over his 33 years in show business. He was a jockey until 1920 when his father, a famous Lancashire comedian, died. And the following year he took over where Dad left off.

"I feel sorry for some of the youngsters starting today," said George. "We used to say it took five years to get there, five years to stay on top and five years on the way out. Today it's more like five months or five minutes—and they're up there before they know what's hit them."

OUT ALL NIGHT

"Some of them stay out all night—and crawl into bed at eight o'clock in the morning."

"You can't do that if you've got a couple of shows in the evening."

But George, appropriately enough, "cleaning winders." With his famous grin as wide as ever he said once more, "It's a pretty good life."

A Famous Broadway Singer Is In Hongkong On A World Trip

HE HANDS OUT MONEY AS HE SINGS

by Andrew Sloan

EMBARRASSMENT in Istanbul... a motor car trip across 800 miles of desert to Bagdad... a visit to the Taj Mahal... and so it goes on for Ray Kidd,
Broadway singer and star of the Folies Bergere, who is now in the course of a world tour singing at night spots wherever he stops.

A Cup Of Coffee

NOW he is in Hongkong recovering from the shock of a spectacular fall from a plane. Ray came to fulfil an engagement at one of Hongkong's leading night spots, which is where he bumped into him.

Over a cup of coffee this man sustained a croaker me of the adventures and the voice that have brought him round the world.

It was late 1954 when Ray finished an eight-month engagement with the Folies Bergere in Paris and then proceeded on a tour of European capitals.

Throughout his trips abroad
Ray Kidd has always given his services to charitable organizations when approached. During and after the war he helped entertain troops all over the world.

His first stop in the European tour was Germany.

On this trip he accompanied Bob Hope, Jane Russell and Rudy Vallee, and while in Germany they performed a number of shows for the troops.

Money Was Real

As well as appearing in stage shows, Ray was also a member of an opera company in Pittsburgh. He appeared in many operettas making quite a name for himself in the process.

He was invited to the Vienna
Music Festival after the tour of Germany was over. While there he was also engaged at the Moulin Rouge.

From Vienna to Istanbul, Turkey.

There he sang at the famous Hilton Hotel.

Bought A Car

ONE of Ray's favourite songs is "Money Money". While he sings, he hands out
"play money". Ray decided that as there were too many bright lights and a big crowd at the Hilton he would place a $10 bill on top of the play money and another underneath to make them look real.

"While I was singing I forgot that I had placed the real money in the bundle and handed that out too. When I found that I had handed out the $20 I felt distinctly upset."

Ray fulfilled an engagement at the London Arts Theatre before moving on to France and when he did leave he was faced with a problem.

There were restrictions on the amount of money which could be taken out of the country. So he bought with it a car and clothes — which he said he did not need.

Later however the car figured very much in Ray's travels.
From Istanbul to Beirut for three months and then, Cairo.

The Suez Canal troubles were just beginning but that did not prevent him from appearing at the Auberge des Pyramides in Cairo.

Ray next decided he would like to move on to Bagdad. But with trouble brewing the authorities decided against that and warned him not to go.

He was not allowed to travel by air and the highway was closed.

Followed Camels

A STUBBORN man, Ray
decided to go to Bagdad—
the hard way.

He turned to the car he had bought in Britain.

With his agent an American newspaperman, he decided to cross the desert. There was no road across the 800 miles of waste land. "Mostly we followed old drums and camels," said Ray.

Eventually they arrived at their destination, after having been lost a number of times, running short of supplies and a series of punctured tyres.

Pakistan and Karachi were next. Again the little car took them all the way. Christmas and New Year were spent in Pakistan at the Metropole Hotel, one of the top night clubs there.

Teamed Up

THE car was sold in Karachi after bringing them all the way from Cairo to India.

During his stay there Ray met a world champion ballroom dancing couple, the Hendersons, and from that day until now they have stuck together. The Hendersons are also in Hongkong.

The Ambassador Hotel, Bombay, was the next night club to hear the intimate style of singing of Ray Kidd. While in Bombay he took time out to visit the Taj Mahal which is something he always wanted to see.

One of India's leading night spots in Calcutta, Firpo's, was Ray's last stop in India.

Visa Trouble

RAY next took a plane ride over to Penang and then a train through Malaya to Singapore to the Adelphi Hotel.
While in Singapore the American Club staged a charity show in which he played a leading part.

Faced with visa trouble he had to postpone his trip to Hongkong and instead flew to Manila, while his friends, the Hendersons, came on to Hongkong.

After one week in Manila, he flew up to "Fabulous exciting, beautiful and different, Hongkong," as Ray described it.

"From here, his 34th country, Ray hopes to move on to Formosa, Saigon or Australia.
But he added that even when his contract finishes in Hongkong he may stay on here because he likes it so much.

POWER COMMISSION
UNDER FIRE
IN UNITED STATES

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

Washington, July 2.

The embattled Federal Power Commission has another bear by the tail. It must let go soon and retreat or hold on and court the wrath of the oil and natural gas people.

Last April 18 the Commission, already under fire because it can't please everybody, notified Independent Gas Producers it was proposing to adopt a rule requiring them to file complete financial reports by July 31 on their 1956 State and interstate business.

It said this was necessary "to proper administration of the Natural Gas Act" and gave the producers until May 20 to file protests. Thereafter, it said, it would decide whether to make the rule permanent.

A similar but less far-reaching rule was invoked last year on 1955 earnings. Protests then failed to sway the Commission but that rule was mild compared to the new one and the protests this year have reached a new and angrier high.

MANY PROTESTS

Asked what the Commission was doing about making the rule effective, a spokesman said: "Nothing as yet." But action one way or another must come soon. The July 31 deadline is less than a month away.

The spokesman conceded there had been "lots of protests—too many to count"—but he wouldn't prophesy the Commission's reaction. It was noted, however, that Commission Chairman L. Digby Dismantled the proposal was broached.

The sharpest complaint by far was filed by General Counsel Russell B. Brown of the Independent Petroleum Association of America. He charged bluntly that the Commission plans a "fishing expedition" in demanding financial data on interstate operations which are out of its jurisdiction and hence none of its business.

PERSONAL

"It would have the effect," he said, "of compelling producers to lay open to the public and divulge information that is personal and private, in many instances adversely affecting the competitive position of the producers."

In its notice the Commission said the Gas Act gives it authority to demand such reports with some exemptions for small producers. It said that after last year's reports were analysed it was found that "more complete information on gas sales under FPC rate schedules is essential" if it is to do an effective job of rate control.

Brown raised five objections. He said the Gas Act confers no such authority; that the rule would violate the due process requirements of the Constitution; that it would violate the Federal Reports Act; that it is an improper exercise of authority; and that it constitutes "an administrative fishing expedition."

WHAT RIGHT?

He said the Commission's jurisdiction does not embrace interstate gas sales or activities not related to gas production. Oil, for example, What right, he asked, does the FPC have to demand an accounting of oil revenues which are a part of interstate gas operations?

"The producers," Brown continued, "engage in a myriad of unrelated activities," yet the Commission is demanding the right to see their ledgers. "It has absolutely no jurisdiction," he added.

He charged further that the Commission was seeking "retroactive" data which could be embarrassing competitively because the Commission itself "has not established firm standards on which to determine producer prices for gas."

"Until such standards are established," he said, "the information needed will be indefinite and subject to change. The rule, therefore, is premature. It is a fishing expedition."—United Press.

ACTIVE TRADING ON WALL STREET

New York, July 2.

Stocks added more than 1 billion to overall values today in the most active trading since June 13, sparked by oils, steels, drugs, building stocks and a host of special issues.

News that a group of drug firms has developed a new vaccine to combat the Asiatic flu which is expected to become a problem in the U.S. this autumn, sparked activity in that group late in the session.

The spurt in drugs added impetus to an advance already in progress, highlighted by gains of around 2 to 4 points in the oils, a point to 3 in the steels and around 2 to 3 points in the building shares.

Reception

Helping sentiment, commentators noted, were the favourable reception in building circles to the new housing bill increasing Federal funds for building and cutting down payments; increased auto output for the first half of the year; forecasts of near-term improvement in steel output; a pickup expected for the television production; and hopes of a better inventory situation for the oils.

Special issues were in the limelight, stocks such as Bell & Howell which spurred over 6 points on active turnover on reports it will make a bid for Standard Oil of Illinois; Elastic Shop Nat, nearly 3 higher on a favourable report.

Turnover swelled to 2,450,000 shares from 1,840,000 on Monday.

American Stock Exchange volume was 740,000 shares.
